WARRING BRAVES

The Mexican Soldiers Will Drive Them Out of the Yaqui River Country.

THE INDIANS STRONGLY FORTIFIED.

Two More Parties of American Prospectors Have Just Arrived at Casas Grandes for Safety.

They Abandoned Rich Silver Mining Camp Upon Hearing Alarming Reports of Marauder Outrages—Over 500 Americans Along Yaqui River.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—A special from Austin, Tex., says: "A dispatch was received here Monday night from Casas Grandes, Mex., reporting that one regiment of Mexican cavalry had left there and started on its march to the upper headquarters of the Yaqui river in the state of Sonora and that it is the evident intention of these troops to enter the Yaqui Indian country from the north and endeavor to drive the warring braves out of their strongholds in the Saburipa mountains, where they are rapidly gathering in force."

On both sides of the rebellious Indians have fortified themselves in the Iaqua mountains between the Yaqui and Matapa rivers, and an effort is to be made to keep the two forces of warriors apart. It is known however that the two divisions are in constant communication by means of courier and I am afraid the Indians are planning to draw the Mexican soldiers into an ambuscade.

Two more parties of American prospectors have just arrived at Casas Grandes. They had a rich silver mining camp near the junction of the Hapigochoco and Iaqua rivers, while they abandoned upon hearing alarming reports of murders and other terrible outrages committed by roving bands of Yaquis at points below them.

Capt. Martin Ross, an old Arizona prospector, is a member of one of the parties. He was one of the first prospectors to enter Yaqui country, and it is no secret to gold hunters. He says the Indians are undoubtedly well prepared for a long and bitter resistance. He believes the majority of American prospectors will be up in time to escape. If they wait only head the first warning that reaches them. Any delay in breaking camp may mean their death.

Capt. Ross also says there is not a many American prospectors along the Yaqui river. He says that about several thousand went into the new country during the last two years, but the majority of them were disappointed in their search for gold and got out as quickly as they could. He estimates that there are not over 500 Americans in the whole district. There is only one extensive mining plant within easy reach of the Indians. It is in the vicinity of the Barrosoa and is owned by California capitalists.

A FURIOUS ENCOUNTER.

Herr Wolf, Reputed Member of the Reichs rath, Badly Wounded in a sober Duel With Her Kruecker.

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—A sensational sanguine duel was fought Monday between Herr Wolf, the notorious German radical member of the reichsrath, and Herr Kruecker, a German liberal deputy. It was a furious encounter. Herr Wolf received a wound in the hand, severing an artery. The doctor declared him unable to continue the duel, but he persisted, though his face was bathed in blood. Ultimately he sustained a second wound in the head, and was carried home in a dangerous condition. The duel arose from Herr Kruecker accusing Herr Wolf of always answering political attacks by fighting duels against incapable antagonists.

Killed by a Trolley Car.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 8.—A year old daughter of Lawrence Hanley, the actor, was crushed to death under a trolley car on the trams line Monday. The child was crossing the street with other children and became bewildered at the rapid approaching car, ran across the tracks and was hit, along with its grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leggett. The mother, who was married to Hanley and after divorce, is Edith Leggett the actress. She is now in the east with a theatrical company.

DREYFUS WEARS A NEW UNIFORM—Three Boxes of Gold Braids, Train Form His Cutts the Day of His Degradation, Glitter in the Sun.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—A special from Austin, Tex., says: "A dispatch was received here Monday night from Casas Grandes, Mex., reporting that one regiment of Mexican cavalry had left there and started on its march to the upper headquarters of the Yaqui river in the state of Sonora and that it is the evident intention of these troops to enter the Yaqui Indian country from the north and endeavor to drive the warring braves out of their strongholds in the Saburipa mountains, where they are rapidly gathering in force."

On both sides of the rebellious Indians have fortified themselves in the Iaqua mountains between the Yaqui and Matapa rivers, and an effort is to be made to keep the two forces of warriors apart. It is known however that the two divisions are in constant communication by means of courier and I am afraid the Indians are planning to draw the Mexican soldiers into an ambuscade.

Two more parties of American prospectors have just arrived at Casas Grandes. They had a rich silver mining camp near the junction of the Hapigochoco and Iaqua rivers, while they abandoned upon hearing alarming reports of murders and other terrible outrages committed by roving bands of Yaquis at points below them.

It was expected that the Dreyfusites and anti-Dreyfusites would shun each other and put up at different hotels, but they have tacitly agreed to sink their differences in such other common interests as eating, drinking, and socializing, and to take their meals at the same tables and amicably pass to each other the dishes.

We were all up at 5 o'clock Monday morning, and after a hurried meal rushed to the concert room of the Lyceum, where the trial takes place. Military preparations were going forward to prevent a lot of roughs coming from Paris to act riotously. Dreyfus was to cross from the prison to the court house, but nobody was to see him except the military escort which bore the sword and the eagle of the Lyceum. An officer whispered to me, when I was in the Lyceum, to go to the window which he indicated and get a glimpse of Dreyfus.

The prisoner was to cross the street ten minutes past six and wait in a private room for the summons to appear before his judges. Precisely at the time named the door of the military prison opened and Dreyfus, guarded by a captain of gendarmerie appeared. He wore a brand new uniform, the cut of which had been modified to fit the shape of the figure, and the whole suit seemed an awkward fit. The three rows of gold braid that were torn from his cuffs on the day of his degradation were glinting in the sun. The man was as stiff as his uniform. He held his head high as if for purpose, but his shoulders stooped. The step was that of a man not used to freedom and extremely measured and mechanical. One might think he had taken the time to learn it.

His hair is of reddish gray, his mustache is frankely red. His face is drawn and worn expression, the eyes frequently inquiring, as if looking out for traps and pitfalls. His complexion is fresh, the kind of freshness that accompanies auburn hair. The lips are rather thin, and the chin is that of a strong man. Indeed, the chin contradicts the impression of the eyes.

Capt. Dreyfus crossed the hall close to the entrance, past the door of which closed behind him. I saw also the arrival of the witnesses, who were taken to the roaster's room.

At 7 o'clock the coming of the court was announced in military fashion, the soldiers presenting arms. The judges entered from the wings and were in full dress uniform. They proceeded in Indian file to their places behind a long table on a slightly raised platform. Col. Journaux, the presiding officer, in a sort of dignified appearance, and a military, and has an upright, martial air.

Col. Journaux in a stentorian voice declared that the trial be begun and, as ordered, the accused be brought in. All eyes were turned upon Dreyfus. He entered with measured step. His mode of saluting the court was jerky and very composed but his fingers betrayed nervousness. His voice is not good, but it was out of practice for five years.

The first incident was the declaration of the president—colonel that he had the absolute power to call witnesses. He then ordered those of M. Queney De Beaurepaire to be cited.

The indictment is that of 1894.

Dreyfus answered cautiously, all questions. The judge was fair, but evidently not friendly. He showed himself, however, sensible and sober-minded and impressed everyone favorably.

The accused is unfortunate in not being able, apart from his sufferings as told by others, to give any clear account of his conduct. He has a retainer, but not a bad one. One would like it to be more frank. The voice is not pleasing and the diction is less so.

Dreyfus seems without dramatic feeling and lacks ease in all things. However, he passed Monday through a cruel ordeal.

It was trying, after the experience of the last five years, to find himself in the full blaze of publicity. His countenance only expressed a wish to hide his feelings. It is a retainer face, but not a bad one. One would like it to be more frank. The voice is not pleasing and the diction is less so.

Conductors and Moormen Discharged.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 8.—The steamer Rosalie, in Sunday night, came into the harbor, having been delayed by the fog. The passengers, mostly colored, were sent ashore by boat.

It was the 11th annual cruise of the vessel.

One hundred and three passengers remained when the names of their vessels were called on board the flagship Corsair Monday afternoon.

Probably 50 or 60 additional vessels are riding in the waters of the Thames.

DEEP WATERWAYS

Members of the Committee Arrive at Detroit From Down the Saint Ste. Marie.

SCHEME TO DEEPEN ST. MARYS RIVER

No Question as to the Practicability of Establishing a Canal From the Lakes to the Atlantic.

TWO SURVEYS HAVE BEEN MADE TO CONNECT LAKES ERIE & ONTARIO, LICK ON THE AMERICAN SIDE OF THE NARROWS RIVER.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 8.—Chairman George V. Wisner and Col. Charles W. Raymond, of the deep waterways committee, arrived down from Sainte Marie Monday evening, where they had been making data for estimates of the cost of constructing a new and larger lock with a depth of 30 feet, and of deepening portions of the St. Marys River. Estimates of these improvements will be included in the report which the committee is preparing for submission to the war department and, eventually, to congress. Col. Raymond continued eastward to his post at Philadelphia.

It was expected that the Dreyfusites and anti-Dreyfusites would shun each other and put up at different hotels, but they have tacitly agreed to sink their differences in such other common interests as eating, drinking, and socializing, and to take their meals at the same tables and amicably pass to each other the dishes.

We were all up at 5 o'clock Monday morning, and after a hurried meal rushed to the concert room of the Lyceum, where the trial takes place.

Military preparations were going forward to prevent a lot of roughs coming from Paris to act riotously. Dreyfus was to cross from the prison to the court house, but nobody was to see him except the military escort which bore the sword and the eagle of the Lyceum.

The prisoner was to cross the street ten minutes past six and wait in a private room for the summons to appear before his judges. Precisely at the time named the door of the military prison opened and Dreyfus, guarded by a captain of gendarmerie appeared.

He wore a brand new uniform, the cut of which had been modified to fit the shape of the figure, and the whole suit seemed an awkward fit. The three rows of gold braid that were torn from his cuffs on the day of his degradation were glinting in the sun. The man was as stiff as his uniform. He held his head high as if for purpose, but his shoulders stooped. The step was that of a man not used to freedom and extremely measured and mechanical. One might think he had taken the time to learn it.

His hair is of reddish gray, his mustache is frankely red. His face is drawn and worn expression, the eyes frequently inquiring, as if looking out for traps and pitfalls. His complexion is fresh, the kind of freshness that accompanies auburn hair. The lips are rather thin, and the chin is that of a strong man. Indeed, the chin contradicts the impression of the eyes.

Capt. Dreyfus crossed the hall close to the entrance, past the door of which closed behind him. I saw also the arrival of the witnesses, who were taken to the roaster's room.

At 7 o'clock the coming of the court was announced in military fashion, the soldiers presenting arms. The judges entered from the wings and were in full dress uniform. They proceeded in Indian file to their places behind a long table on a slightly raised platform. Col. Journaux, the presiding officer, in a sort of dignified appearance, and a military, and has an upright, martial air.

Col. Journaux in a stentorian voice declared that the trial be begun and, as ordered, the accused be brought in. All eyes were turned upon Dreyfus. He entered with measured step. His mode of saluting the court was jerky and very composed but his fingers betrayed nervousness. His voice is not good, but it was out of practice for five years.

The first incident was the declaration of the president—colonel that he had the absolute power to call witnesses. He then ordered those of M. Queney De Beaurepaire to be cited.

The indictment is that of 1894.

Dreyfus answered cautiously, all questions. The judge was fair, but evidently not friendly. He showed himself, however, sensible and sober-minded and impressed everyone favorably.

The accused is unfortunate in not being able, apart from his sufferings as told by others, to give any clear account of his conduct. He has a retainer, but not a bad one. One would like it to be more frank. The voice is not pleasing and the diction is less so.

Conductors and Moormen Discharged.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 8.—The steamer Rosalie, in Sunday night, came into the harbor, having been delayed by the fog. The passengers, mostly colored, were sent ashore by boat.

It was the 11th annual cruise of the vessel.

One hundred and three passengers remained when the names of their vessels were called on board the flagship Corsair Monday afternoon.

Probably 50 or 60 additional vessels are riding in the waters of the Thames.

Fugitives Demand $1,000,000.

MADRAS, Aug. 8.—It is stated that the Filipinos demand $7,000,000 for the release of Spanish prisoners held by them.

THE TROLLEY ACCIDENT.

Twenty-Nine Persons Were Killed at Orogrande, Cts.—Ten of the Dead Injured. Only Three Are in Danger.

BRODHEAD, Cts., Aug. 8.—Twenty-nine persons were killed at Orogrande, Cts., on Sunday morning. Of the dead, injured only three are in a serious condition. Examination of the trolley and the wrecked car by the coroner's jury and engineering experts Monday showed that the structure was perfectly sound, but that the wooden stringers outside the rails were too low to serve as guard rails; that the flanges of the car wheels were unbroken and the brakes set. The crane was turned to shore to haul the car.

George Hamlin, the motorman, has been arrested, charged with manslaughter. The generally accepted theory is that the car was running rapidly when it reached the trolley and was swaying, and that when it came upon the unelastic rail the bridge jumped the track and there was no guard rail adequate to keep the car from going over. The coroner's jury has not yet come to a conclusion.

ELECTRIC PARK.

An Enjoyable Program to Be Presented at This Delightful Resort.

A big audience was out last evening at the Paris Theater to see this week's offerings, and they were repaid for going, for a delightful program was rendered.

The Edisons made the hit of the evening to their ludicrous Chinese sketch, "Trouble in a Chinese Washhouse," and it is a novelty and something entirely different from many other acts that have been presented here. Mr. Edison's "Giant" is a most interesting feature, and his capital.

Mrs. Edison's juggling is very clever. Their stroboscopic close the show and the subjects presented are more laughable and interesting. Mr. Whitley and Beckett presented a very neat and refined sketch which was received with fine ringing and dancing and good repartee. Miss Beckett is a finished and graceful dancer, and Mr. Whitley's fine bark tone is heard to a good advantage in a number of his own compositions. Rustic scenes several songs that pleased immensely.

In addition to the program the Mayville Orchestra under Prof. Bullock's efficient leadership will give a delightful concert and will render the following programs:

March—A Lark—new Irish Music—new
Waltz—A-mute de Four.
March—Allegro facile.
March—Charade.
Waltz—Cinderella.
March—French Comédie.

Be sure and take in this musical treat. The concert will begin at 8 P.M., and the balance of the musical program will be rendered during the performance. The weather man says that we will have favorable tempos, so make your arrangements to stay and enjoy your self. Numbered reserved chairs on sale in advance at Nelson's. Fifteen cents pay admission and service.

No one knows the unbearable torture, the peculiar and agonizing pain caused by piles, or hemorrhoids, and yet many people still believe them incurable. This is a mistake. Proper treatment will cure them. Taber's Buckeye Pile Ointment is an infallible cure. Price 50 cents in bottles, tubes 5 cents. J. Jas. Wood & Son.
